Presidents Obama, Clinton and Bush to Take Covid Vaccine Publicly to Instill Public Confidence – Open Letter to Trump To Do the Same

There are several more developments in Covid news, including spikes in Texas, the CDC has recommended asymptomatic carriers be quarantined more one instead of two weeks, Interpol warns of gang plans to steal the Covid vaccine to sell on the black market and much more. But one promising sign is the emergence of vaccines for Covid, the first country to authorize their use being the UK. Given the for-profit nature of our healthcare system in America, I doubt that the lower income communities will have access to it, assuming it is not given free of charge. These communities are not only most are risk of becoming infected, but also of spreading it, which is dangerous for everyone.

We live in an age of celebrity politics. Our politicians are celebrities and everything is theater. The population is just too dumb to act rationally, the hyper partisan nature of our politics makes it that much worse. Three past presidents, Obama, Clinton and Bush have all stated that they will be taking the Coronavirus vaccine publicly to instill confidence in its use, perhaps on television. Unfortunately, much of the antivax movement has seeped into right-wing circles, even though it was overwhelmingly a left-wing phenomenon. Given the hurried nature of vaccine developments due to the urgency of stopping this pandemic, tin-foil hatters will no doubt make hay to spread distrust in public health. I will be getting the vaccine when it is approved and available for the public. I urge President Trump to set aside partisanship or his ego and follow the lead of Obama, Clinton and Bush, and join them in publicly receiving the vaccine. Sadly, I fear this will not happen, and this pandemic will rage on all the more.
